

AN INTRODUCTION TO CITY ART INSTITUTE

As the School of Art, Alexander Mackie College of Advanced Education, the City Art Institute was established in 1975. It inherited the Diploma in Art from the National Art School and the Diploma in Art (Education) which previously had been shared between the National Art School and Alexander Mackie College. By so doing the new art school fulfilled one of the recommendations of the Gleeson Report, which had been commissioned some years earlier.

There followed a period of rapid development which saw the introduction of two degree programs, the Bachelor of Arts (Visual Arts) and the Bachelor of Education (Art) Programs which replaced the pre-existing diploma programs.

In 1980, again under the banner of Alexander Mackie College, the first Graduate Diploma in Professional Art Studies in N.S.W. was approved and admitted its first students.

In 1982, under its new name, the City Art Institute became one of the elements in the Sydney College of Advanced Education a new college formed by the amalgamation of Alexander Mackie C.A.E., Sydney Teachers' College, two colleges of early childhood teacher education and the Guild Teachers' College.

In 1982, City Art admitted students to the first Master of Arts (Visual Arts) Program approved in Australia in the college sector.

A Graduate Diploma in Gallery Management introduced in 1985 is the most recent addition to the Institute's academic profile.

City Art began its life in 1975 accommodated in two rented properties plus a portion of the East Sydney Tech previously occupied by the old National Art School. After a series of moves to various temporary premises and
